

The consensus probability of a recession in Europe, UK, and the US has declined significantly in recent months

